About this Plan

The City of Unley wants everyone to be able to take part in community life. This plan explains how we will make our community more welcoming, accessible and inclusive for people living with a disability.

We call our plan the DAIP. The DAIP talks about what we will do over the next 4 years to make Unley:

- Inclusive
- Accessible

Our Community

Unley is home to many different people, ages and cultures. This plan recognises that everyone should have the chance to be involved and feel supported.

Our Vision

Our vision is for Unley to be a place where everyone feels respected, valued and able to take part in daily life without barriers.

How We Created This Plan

We spent time listening to people in our community, including people with disability, families, carers and services. Their ideas helped shape this plan.

What We Have Already Done

Council has already worked to improve accessibility by updating buildings, improving communication tools, and making events more inclusive.

Inclusive Environments and Communities

We want people with disability to be actively involved in community life. We will create spaces and activities where everyone feels welcome.

Universal Design and Accessible Places

Buildings, parks, paths and streets should be easy for everyone to use. We will continue improving public spaces using universal design principles.

Accessible Facilities

Council is planning upgrades to public toilets and community facilities to make them easier and safer for everyone to use.

Communications and Information

We will make sure our information is accessible. This includes using clear language, easy read formats and accessible digital content.

Transport and Getting Around

We want people to be able to move around easily. We will improve footpaths, signs, parking and connections between key places.

Collaboration and Community Input

People with disability will continue to help guide decisions by being part of conversations, workshops and reviews.

Education, Employment and Volunteering

We will support inclusive education, employment and volunteering opportunities within Council and the community.

Personal and Community Support

People with disability will have better access to services and supports to help them participate in everyday life.

Safety and Emergencies

Council will provide safe spaces and make sure emergency information is accessible for everyone.

How the Plan Will Be Delivered

We will regularly check our progress and share updates each year to show how we are meeting the goals of this plan.
